ALBERTA:
Effective 06/12, Alberta entered Stage 2 which allowed cafes, restaurants, pubs, and bars to continue operating but no longer have a capacity limitation if public health measures are in place. Some of these measures include: there must be a 2 metre distance or appropriate barriers between each party, parties may be up to 6 patrons, table condiments and other frequently touched items should be removed from the table, and there should be no buffet service or self-service, with the exception of self-service beverage stations; if refills are available, provide guests with a new cup.

BRITISH COLUMBIA:
Effective 05/19, restaurants, cafes, and pubs were permitted to reopen for dine-in services with maximum capacity of 50%; additional restrictions include: patrons must be seated with at least two meters between parties and parties must be limited to groups of 6.

MANITOBA:
Effective 06/01, restaurants, bars, beverage rooms, brew pubs, micro breweries, and distilleries were permitted to resume dine-in services for indoor and outdoor seating with a maximum capacity of 50% both indoors and on patios; additional restrictions include: patrons seated at different tables must maintain a distance of at least 2 meters, parties must be limited to groups of 10, and no buffet service will be allowed.

NEW BRUNSWICK:
Effective 05/08, restaurants and other similar establishments, such as brewpubs and taprooms, were permitted to resume dine-in services if proper physical distancing measures are followed. Each establishment can set capacity limits depending on the size and footprint of each location.

NEWFOUNDLAND & LABRADOR:
Effective 06/08, restaurants were permitted to reopen at 50% capacity, following strict physical distancing guidelines of 2 meters between patrons seated at adjacent tables must be maintained, and buffet are prohibited.

NORTHWEST TERRITORIES:
Effective 06/12, restaurants, lounges, and bars were permitted to open but may not have more than 25 customers indoors & no more than 50 patrons in outdoor dining areas; additional limitations include: physical distancing of at least 2 metres must be maintained amongst persons from different households, dance floors shall remain closed, and live music is prohibited.

ONTARIO:
Effective 06/12, 24 public health unit regions moved into Stage 2 which allowed restaurants, bars, food trucks, and other food & drink establishments to open for outdoor dining areas only; additional restrictions include: establishments must make appropriate measures to ensure at least 2 metres of space between patrons of different households, use of reservations, limiting the number of patrons allowed in the outdoor space, etc.

10 other public health unit regions remain in Stage 1 until it is safe to move to Stage 2.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND:
Effective 06/01, indoor dining and service at food premises, breweries, cideries, and wineries was permitted to resume; restrictions include: 50 persons allowed inside with additional people permitted on patios and no buffet style options.

QUEBEC:
Effective 6/15, business activities in the restaurant industry outside the Montréal Metropolitan Area, the Joliette Regional County Municipality and the city of L’Épiphanie are authorized to restart; restaurant owners can open dining areas, including dining rooms and terraces; locations must be set up to allow two metres of physical distance between customers, unless they occupy the same private residence or there is a physical barrier that limits contagion. In addition, customers can use food courts at shopping centres if they are set up in compliance with conditions outlined by public health authorities.

SASKATCHEWAN:
Effective 06/08, food and beverage service establishments were permitted to reopen at a maximum capacity of 50%. A call ahead or reservation system is recommended to help maintain limited occupancy while limiting the number of people waiting for a table, and customers may sit at bar areas, if physical distancing is maintained between groups or individuals. Buffets and other self-service food lines remain closed.

YUKON:
Effective 05/29, food premises were permitted to reopen with 50% occupancy, sufficient physical distancing measures must be in place, and patrons must be seated to be served.

As of June 18, all but 3 states have officially let their stay-at-home orders expire indefinitely.

Because most of them are still in Phase 1 or Phase 2 of reopening, all residents are still recommended to limit non-essential travel, practice social distancing, and take any necessary safety precautions. The remaining 3 states have somewhat modified their stay-at-home policies to account for the reopening of some businesses. Residents of these states are still urged to stay at home – traveling is only authorized when visiting essential businesses or businesses that have been authorized to resume, depending on the state’s recovery phases. These states are California, Hawaii, Vermont, and New Hampshire.
